

IFHE WEBINAR DISCLAIMER

This disclaimer applies to IFHE Webinars and any documents, information or opinions obtained from or ancillary to the Webinar. You are advised to read this disclaimer carefully before accessing, participating in, reading or making any other use of an IFHE Webinar.

§ 1

Registering for a Webinar only constitutes an agreement to attend and does not establish any contractual relationship with IFHE. Registration is completed by paying the Webinar fee through the IFHE Website.

By registering and logging onto a Webinar, the participant agrees to the following:

1. Personally identifiable information of the participants may be heard, seen, read, collected or used by IFHE as the organizer and other Webinar participants.
2. Any communication or information transmitted during the Webinar, such as voice, live instant messaging displaying names of those intervening, and presentations, are available to the Webinar audience and are also recorded for IFHE's further promotion and information purposes.
3. IFHE may further use the information available on the Webinar such as attendees lists, contributions of discussion, information on the Webinar subject matter and recordings thereof.
4. The material provided and the recording of the Webinar is property of the author and/or IFHE. Duplicating and distributing the material in print and/or electronic form is strictly prohibited.

The opinions expressed in a Webinar are those of the author only and may not necessarily represent the views of IFHE. The statements, analysis, opinions and conclusions in a Webinar presentation, and any related written materials are those of the author and not of IFHE or any of its agents, directors, employees or advisors. No part of any statement made in the course of a Webinar presentation or part of any paper arising from those presentations can be regarded as legal advice.

Although IFHE believes that all the information, both written and oral, given in the course of or in connection with, the Webinar presentation activities is accurate and reliable, no warranty or accuracy or reliability as to such information is given and no responsibility for loss arising in any way from or in connection with errors or omissions in any information provided (including responsibility to any person by reason of negligence) is accepted by IFHE or by any of its agents or employees or by any person giving presentations or addresses or providing notes or materials. By acceding to this service, you acknowledge that the information and the materials contained in the Webinar may contain inaccuracies or errors.

The contents of the information provided in the Webinar is for your general information and use only. It is subject to change at any time and without notice. The Webinar may include links to other resources and websites. These links are provided for your convenience only and do not signify that IFHE endorses, approves or makes any representation or claim regarding the accuracy, copyright, compliance, legality, or any other aspects of the resources or websites.

§ 4

The on-line provision and recording of Webinars by IFHE is supported by the software application Zoom. All parties accessing a Webinar agree that they do so subject to the terms and conditions of this software application. Zoom terms and conditions can be provided on written request.

§ 5

To the full extent permitted by law, IFHE and its agents, directors, employees and advisors exclude any and all liability for any loss, claim or damage, cost or expense, including indirect or consequential damages or lost profit, whether arising in negligence or otherwise, suffered in connection with the access to, participation in or use of the Webinar by you or any other person.
